

FLORIDA GULF COAST UNIVERSITY

INTEGRATING SUSTAINABILITY ACROSS THE CURRICULUM ACADEMY

The Integrating Sustainability Across the Curriculum (ISAC) Academy is a cohort-based annual workshop that will help you revise existing course curriculum or students centered content to incorporate sustainability into a class or program.

No prior experience with sustainability or environmental issues in the classroom or in research is necessary.

Faculty, staff, and adjuncts from all colleges and programs are encouraged to apply.

Sustainability education explores the intersections of social, economic, and ecological issues and challenges. It empowers students by helping them explore opportunities and solutions to the sustainability challenges they will face in their professional and civic lives.

All disciplines can participate in sustainability education.

Supported by:

- Office of the Provost and Vice President of Academic Affairs
- Academic Programs and Curriculum Development

Faculty Application:

<https://forms.office.com/r/xcVHiKXKXw>

Staff Application:

<https://forms.office.com/r/288qhgHxw8>

Deadline to apply is March 1st, 2022

Accepted applicants will participate in a 2.5 day academy on May 11th, 13th, & 25th

Participants will be compensated for participating in all scheduled dates and revising and implementing sustainability course content, activities, and experiences. Stipend granted upon completion.

Questions?

Contact Jessica Marcolini at jpmarcolini@fgcu.edu or
Brandon Hollingshead at bhollingshead@fgcu.edu

